Description
Roller is a Nottingham-based mobile app development agency, specialising in mHealth apps for clinical, medical, and wellbeing.
We build bespoke, native mobile apps for iOS and Android for any purpose, including patient self-management, education, ePRO, and medication adherence. Our work has allowed us to work with organisations like Novartis, Takeda, and the NHS.
With a background in creative design and marketing, our key focus is on bringing snazzy design and engaging user experiences to the healthcare industry. We have built a reputation for designing apps, websites, and portals that your end users actually want to use.
